

Largest Rocket In World Set Off by U. S.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Saturn, the world's biggest known rocket, scored complete success today in its first test flight and gave the United States a mighty push in the race with the Soviet Union to put men on the moon.

The performance was well into what one scientist said in advance would be "150 per cent" of perfect.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States tries today to launch the first Saturn, the world's largest rocket. If successful, the Saturn's brief, eight-minute flight would signal the start of this nation's drive to land men on the moon.

The superrocket was scheduled to break away from its launch pad in midmorning under the massive power of eight engines generating 1.3 million pounds of thrust, equal to 30 million horsepower.

The 162-foot rocket, weighing 462 tons on liftoff, is intended to reach peak altitude of 95 miles before diving to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean 225 miles down range—about 70 miles northeast of Little Abaco Island in the Bahamas.

Only the first stage is on trial on the maiden flight. Two dummy upper stages are loaded with 23,000 gallons of water for ballast. Saturn's eight engine power plant is capable of 1.5 million pounds of thrust, but scientists aren't giving the rocket its head on the initial test.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported major goals are to check performance of the eight-engine cluster; verify structural and aerodynamic design of the entire rocket; and probe workability of ground support and launch equipment.

NASA plans 10 research and development flights leading to an operational Saturn in 1964. NASA cautioned against overoptimism and said it is reasonable to expect only five successes in the 10 test launches.

Saturn's primary mission once it is operational will be to place the Apollo three-man spaceship in earth orbits lasting several weeks. An advanced Saturn, which will have 3 to 4 million pounds of thrust in the booster stage, will be used to hoist Apollo and its three-man crew into orbit around the moon.

U. S., Russia Trade Protests

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union traded protests today about the tense situation on the border between East and West Berlin.

When U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson delivered a verbal denunciation of the demand that U.S. officials in Berlin show identification documents to East German soldiers, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko countered with a protest against what he called American provocation.

Moscow May Expect High Level Talk

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

BONN, Germany (AP)—Moscow may be expecting high-level talks on Berlin before long.

This could be an explanation of the current harassment of U.S. civilian officials at the East Berlin sector border. This has to be on Moscow's orders, since the East German Communist regime does not have sufficient independence to undertake such a perilous course on its own.

The idea of the harassment seems not to much to rebuke the crisis, as to permit grabbing all the advantage possible in advance of four-power talks.

Actually, there is almost nothing to negotiate about. But from the Soviet viewpoint the talks would be a means of opening a safety valve, of letting steam out of a crisis which could explode, of providing time to digest gains already racked up since the Communists built the wall between the Berlin sectors in August.

The Western Allies, aware that Moscow is pushing for talks, appear to be trying desperately to hammer together a unified approach. But the going is slow, particularly in view of the aggressive Soviet pushing.

There are indications that the United States wants the West to go into the talks with new demands, thus providing the Westerners with something to talk about, something to negotiate.

The West could, for example, demand that any talks concern the future of all Berlin, not West Berlin alone; that the conference discuss the destruction of the Communist wall; that it discuss such things as revision of agreements covering access to West Berlin or even new corridors to Berlin.

The Russians seem to have no intention of talking about Berlin as a whole. East Berlin they now consider theirs. West Berlin they are willing to consider, for the time being, an occupied city. It is there and only there they want to eliminate, as they put it, "the remnants of World War II."

Milk Marketing to More Counties

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A proposal to bring 13 additional counties under an Agriculture department milk marketing order which now covers 13 counties will be discussed at a public hearing here Nov. 15.

The hearing was requested by the Central Arkansas Milk Producers Association (CAMP), which represents most of the producers serving the market.

Counties which the proposal would add to the present central Arkansas district are Phillips, Lee, St. Francis, Cross, Polk, Craighead, Greene, Lawrence, Independence, Jackson, Woodruff, Prairie and Mississippi.

Ex-Diplomat Convicted By U. S. Jury

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former U.S. diplomat Irvin C. Scarbeck was convicted today of revealing American Embassy secrets to Polish Communist agents.

The federal court jury of 11 men and one woman returned the verdict only half an hour after starting its third day of deliberations. The jury found the 41-year-old Scarbeck guilty on the first three counts of the four-count indictment. I found him innocent on the fourth count, which concerned the physical removal of a classified document from a public office, namely, the American Embassy in Warsaw, Poland.

Scarbeck, a stocky bespectacled man, betrayed no emotion as he stood erect to face the jury and hear the verdict.

The jury deliberated 15½ hours since receiving the case Wednesday morning. The trial took 3½ weeks, and, for the last two weeks, the jury had been locked up to prevent its being influenced by news reports of the trial.

In a signed statement for FBI agents, Scarbeck admitted giving the information to the Poles. He said he deliberately distorted the documents he was accused of orally passing on.

Scarbeck was pictured in testimony as having been blackmailed by the agents when they caught him in bed with a Polish woman, Ursula Discher.

He could be imprisoned up to 33 years and fined up to $32,000.

Wants Proposal a CD Project

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he thinks any plans for a communications fortress on nearby Shinnel Mountain should be part of an overall Civil Defense plan.

William A. Price, Little Rock Civil Defense director, suggested construction of such a fortress Thursday. He said it should be named by city, county and state governments.

Owen Payne Jr., state Civil Defense director, said he hadn't heard of Price's proposal until he read about it in a newspaper Thursday.

Payne said, "There are many things that could get involved in a situation like that." He said he would give the idea consideration. Faubus said he left Payne summing up the matter pretty well.

False Arrest Judgment of $10,000

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A U.S. District Court jury awarded $10,000 damages Thursday to William C. Utley, a Memphis salesman who spent 18 hours in the North Little Rock city jail after being incorrectly identified as the passer of some bad checks.

The judgment was against National Food Stores, Inc. Police arrested Utley outside a National store in North Little Rock on Aug. 8, 1960, after they were called by Raymond Cash, the store manager.

Utley testified that he spent a miserable night in jail, crouching and swinging a paper plate to keep roaches from crawling up his legs. He said police would not let him call anyone who could identify him. Utley asked $75,000 actual and $75,000 punitive damages. No punitive damages were allowed.

Police said Cash identified Utley in the store parking lot as a bad check passer and later drew the identification. Cash said he at first thought Utley was the man who passed the checks, but later realized that he wasn't and told the officers so.

Cash said he went back to the store and called Bill Wilkins, the assistant manager, who identified Utley as a salesman of floor wax and not the bad check passer. Cash said he then told the officers that he had made a mistake.

"You either believe Cash or the police officers," said attorney John B. Mack of Memphis, who represented National.

Utley, 39, is now a greeting card salesman. Cash lives in Benton where he is a salesman for a wholesale company.

Asian-African Motion Passes UN by 44-22

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Political Committee today approved an Asian-African motion. The Soviet bloc demand for a quick vote on an appeal to all countries to halt all Ethiopia to suspend the nuclear debate temporarily to permit priority action on a big six-nation moratorium resolution.

The vote was 44-22 with 29 abstaining. The United States and the other Western powers voted against the Ethiopian motion. The Soviet bloc abstained.

The move was launched in the committee a few hours before the General Assembly itself was scheduled to act on an appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel its scheduled explosion of a 50-megaton bomb.

The assembly was expected to give overwhelming approval to the appeal to the Kremlin to halt the 50-megaton bomb detonation.

Few Schools Instruct in Communism

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Only three states out of 45 which answered an Arkansas Legislative Council poll require special instruction on Communism in public schools.

The council's research staff made the survey to prepare for discussion by the council of Saline County Rep. Virgil Fletcher's proposal for study of the feasibility of such a requirement in Arkansas.

"The council will take up Fletcher's proposal Nov. 6."

Hawaii, Louisiana and Florida are the three states which require teaching of a comparison between Communism and Democracy, the survey showed. Hawaii has had the requirement since 1952. It was adopted in the other two states within the past two years.

The research report says, "Most states indicate that instruction regarding the evils of Communism is presently being offered in courses on American history, American government, economics, etc."

It adds that a few states are, like Arkansas, studying possibility of requiring specialized courses. The council got no replies from Alabama, Minnesota, North Carolina, Oklahoma and South Carolina.

U.S., Russian Tanks Square Off, Threat of War Hits Berlin

Khrushchev Naturally Blames U. S.

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev asserted today the Western powers are threatening war over Berlin at a time when the United States "is faced with the arduous task" of overtaking the Soviet Union in the sphere of nuclear weapons.

Asserting he wants only peace, Khrushchev told the 22nd session of the Soviet Communist party congress the Soviet Union will not try to dictate its will to other nations. But he said the situation in Berlin cannot continue indefinitely.

Khrushchev said President Kennedy spoke of the need of overtaking the Soviet Union, while Secretary of State Dean Rusk persists in calling for a "position of strength policy."

"It looks as if the right hand did not know what the left was doing," he told the final speech-making session of the Soviet Communist party congress.

Khrushchev declared the Western powers "want us to insure, like traffic police, the transportation to West Berlin of their military freight, spies and saboteurs."

"Who do these gentlemen take us for?" he demanded. "Do they actually believe that they can do anything they want and that they can make us act against our vital interests, against the interests of world peace and security?"

"By threatening war," Khrushchev said, "they want to make us perpetrate the right of the United States, Britain and France, to occupy West Berlin."

Once more Khrushchev said the Soviet Union was forced to resume the testing of nuclear weapons "in the face of direct threats and the danger of a war."

Soviet scientists are doing everything to reduce the harmful effects of the tests to a minimum. But he said the Western Powers "threaten not only to contaminate the atmosphere, but to take the lives of millions of people."

Khrushchev said speeches by guests from abroad before the congress "reflect the great unity of the ranks of the world Communist movement."

The premier told the congress that such support confirmed "once more that all the Marxist-Leninist parties approve and support the Leninist policy of our party," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Khrushchev said the attention of the congress is concentrated on the new 20-year party program designed to build a Communist society that will outstrip the Western industrial nations.

"All the delegates to the congress who have spoken from this rostrum expressed firm confidence that the new program would be successfully realized," he declared.

Khrushchev, concluding a two-week session of speechmaking of the congress, charged the Western powers were threatening to take up arms because the Soviet Union proposed to conclude a peace treaty with Communist East Germany. He said the Western powers wanted to perpetuate their rights in the divided former German capital to insure the freedom of West Berlin.

"But neither the Soviet Union nor the German Democratic Republic and the other Socialist countries have any designs upon the freedom of West Berlin," the premier said.

Without mentioning Albania—assailed before the Congress for Stalinism—Khrushchev said speeches of foreign guests at the congress "reflect the great unity."

The congress is expected to wind up on Nov. 3 after a secret session of several days.

Suicide Ruled

Development Group Planned

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP)—Officials and civic leaders of Memphis, West Memphis and nearby communities meet here today to discuss a proposed "area development commission."

The sponsors, including the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, want co-operation between the cross-river cities in attracting industries for the entire section.

William P. Rock, executive director of the AIDC, was a scheduled speaker.

The proposed commissions immediate goals of which would include development of a river port on the West Memphis side of the Mississippi, formation of an area zoning plan and equalization of freight rates.

Tanks Prove Russia Behind Whole Thing

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States said today that the Soviet Union's movement of tanks into East Berlin is a "betrayal" of the Soviet responsibility for that sector of the divided German city.

But State Department officials said they do not know whether the presence of Soviet military power close to the East-West Berlin sector border would ease the situation or make it more dangerous.

The point they emphasized was that whatever happens the Soviets have now conceded that they are responsible in East Berlin.

The statement here was issued soon after U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson delivered a protest to the Foreign Office in Moscow against Communist efforts to impose restrictions on travel by Western officials into East Berlin and reportedly demanded that the Soviets reassert their authority over East German police at the border crossing point.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said the statement here and the Thompson presentation in Moscow pressed hard on the same central issue—the effort of the Communists to take "unilateral actions" in Berlin in defiance of the rights of the Western powers.

The Soviets, White said, have "attempted to hide behind the backs of the East Germans" by pretending that the East Germans could assume authority.

The view here was that if the presence of the tanks means that the Soviets are not only "admitting" but also "accepting" their responsibilities then the situation should improve. However, if they are there simply to reinforce East German demands with Soviet military power then it will probably get worse.

The U.S. position is that the Soviets must assume full responsibility for maintaining the right of unhindered access by allied officials to East Berlin.

White said Thompson had made an appointment to call at the Foreign Office today.

OSCEOLA, Ark. (AP)—Lewis White, a 64-year-old Negro, burned to death and his 61-year-old wife was critically burned in a fire which destroyed their frame home here Thursday night.

Fire officials said the fire resulted from misuse of kerosene, apparently while one of the victims was lighting a stove.

Situation Is Described as Dangerous

By RICHARD O'REGAN

Berlin (AP)—American and Russian tanks trained guns on each other from a range of 200 yards in the explosive center of Berlin tonight.

Five American and seven Soviet tanks were at the dangerous Friedrichstrasse crossing point between East and West Berlin.

No traffic was passing between East and West Berlin, although West Berlin police insisted that the border still was officially open.

"The critical situation developed after tanks of both powers maneuvered to and from the border in the wake of an armed U.S. thrust into East Berlin."

Finally they stood facing each other across the line that separates East and West sectors.

The Americans were in a crouch from the white line marking the border. The Russian tanks stood 200 yards back in East Berlin. Between them was a zig-zag barrier of concrete blocks—no obstacle if the tank commanders were ordered forward.

Also standing between the forces were a few East German police Vopos—who brought the tense Berlin situation to a head last Sunday when they started demanding identification from American civilians moving between the two halves of the city.

The Communists sent tanks to the neighborhood of the Friedrichstrasse crossing point after the United States made an armed thrust with military police and jeeps into East Berlin for the third successive day.

The American foray was carried out under the protecting guns of 10 Patton tanks and five armored personnel carriers. Immediately after the thrust, the American equipment left the

Flu Shots Are Short in State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A national flu scare has resulted in a heavy demand for influenza shots and a consequent shortage of the vaccine.

This information came Thursday from representatives of three wholesale drug houses here. They said only about 10 per cent of the orders for the vaccine are being met.

Manufacturers sold little of the vaccine last year, so didn't make much this year.

But a general forecast of a cold winter and expert opinion which says the normal flu cycle indicates flu outbreaks this year, have brought a huge demand for the shots.

So far, there is no epidemic. Little Rock hospitals said their list of flu patients was about normal.

Many physicians are able to give the shots to only a few patients.

Manufacturers have stepped up production and soon will be able to supply more of the vaccine. The drug houses said the demand is not only great in Arkansas, but over the nation.

U. S. Buys Broilers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The U.S. Department of Agriculture bought 780,000 pounds of broilers and fryers for the school lunch program Thursday. Of the total, 150,000 pounds were bought in Arkansas at prices between 28.35 and 28.55 cents per pound.

Turns Idea of 2 Years Into Reality

By JULES LOH
AP Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One summer day in 1936 The Rev. Louis A. Gales, a curate at St. Agnes Church in St. Paul, Minn., decided to do something about an idea that had been nagging him more than two years.

Hopefully, he mailed to about 9,000 Catholics across the country a dummy cover of a digest type magazine, its suggested contents listed on the front. Recipients were asked on an enclosed postcard whether they would subscribe to this kind of publication.

Two months later, Father Gales, 40, and his close friend, The Rev. Paul Bussard, sat in the basement of the Bishop's House in St. Paul, a bushel basket of postcards between them, and began making plans for what was to become the most successful Catholic magazine in the world.

Catholic Digest, which observes its 25th anniversary with the 144-page November issue, now is a private corporation grossing $5 million a year, boasts a paid U.S. circulation of 751,178, newsstand sales of 15,000 a month, plus 10 foreign editions printed in five languages and a Braille edition. In addition, the magazine has a monthly book club with 56,000 members and next February plans to begin publication of a second magazine, "The Catholic Market," a slick-paper monthly aimed at what it describes as "the $3 billion to $4 billion Catholic trade market." Another enterprise in the works is a junior book club offering biographies of famous Catholics.

Despite its financial success, Father Gales says frankly the aim of the magazine is not to make

Ouachita Group Has New Project

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — The Ouachita River Valley Association adopted a new project—proposed channelization of the Saline River from Warren to where it joins the Ouachita—at a meeting Wednesday.

H. K. Thatcher, executive vice president of the association, said the proposal would be tied in with proposed deepening of the Ouachita to nine feet.

The organization held its meet-aboard a pleasure boat on the Ouachita.

Johnson Pays Rayburn a Visit

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson visited Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., at Baylor Hospital again Wednesday and said Rayburn appeared "considerable better."

However, a hospital bulletin reflected no change in the condition of Rayburn, stricken with incurable cancer.

"Our hope is to show the rich content of the Catholic faith by selecting the best reading material available so that those who are mildly interested in Catholicism might investigate it more thoroughly," he said.

Notice How Feeble Money Is Lately?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you been noticing how feeble your money is lately?

It doesn't go so far. Money is like people. As it grows older, it doesn't seem able to do as much as it did when younger. And therefore it doesn't command the same respect from those around it.

The dollar bill is showing its age. It has lost a lot of cents. As long ago as the Truman administration the 100-cent dollar had declined to 54 cents.

Today the portrait of George Washington would have to undergo a real face-lifting job to get the dollar back up even to that level.

The erosion of money continues in small almost unnoticed ways and goes on, it seems, no matter what we do or who runs the government.

Every now and then something happens, however, to call it dramatically to our personal attention.

A few weeks ago, for example, I handed the bootblack in our office a quarter for a shoeshine, as I have for many years. He shook his head.

"It's 30 cents," he said. "Thirty cents for a shoeshine?" I asked, a bit dazed.

"Why not?" he replied. "The price of everything else has gone up. I gotta raise my price, too. A few days ago I asked him if his 30-cent scale had cost him many customers."

"No," he said. "Why should it? Business is as good as ever. What's an extra nickel to most people?"

Well, to one man at least that extra nickel was a disillusioning experience in basic economics. I can distinctly remember when, if you paid 15 cents for a shoeshine, it gave you the feeling you were a real sport and something of a patron of the fine art. Now at 30 cents I was barely meeting the going rate.

Even as long ago as the World War I era a vice president of the United States could murmur nostalgically: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

But at that time you could still get a pack of cigarettes for six cents, a five-cent glass of beer, and buy a good serviceable top coat for less than a medium-priced pair of shoes cost now.

Remember the 52 hotel room, the two bit haircut, the pickle cup of coffee, the 15-cent shave, the penny postcard, the two-cent letter, the nickel hot dog, and the 15 cent ham and cheese sandwich?

Remember the floating five-cent ice cream cone, the five-cent trolley car ride, the big nickel candy bar?

All the landmarks of a lower-priced living stand out in the memory of the average middle-aged, middle-class American. He dreams of them sometime as he drives to work in a car that cost him four times as much as the car he drove in his youth.

The jingle of coins in his pocket used to be a satisfying sound. Now a jingle doesn't mean so much. There has to be the crisp crinkling sound of folding currency.

It makes a man a bit sad to realize that both he and money have grown older, and neither will ever quite be again what they used to be—for time invisibly wears down the value and promise of each.

Calvary Church Dedication Set Sunday

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 29, AT 3 P. M. CALVARY BAPTIST Church will observe the dedication service of its new sanctuary. The church is located at 2101 West Ave. B. Dr. S. A. Whitlow, Executive Secretary of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention, will preach the dedication sermon. It was during Dr. Whitlow's pastorate at First Baptist Church that Calvary Church was begun in October 1954 as the First Baptist Mission.

SINCE THAT TIME THE WORK HAS PROSPERED AND the new sanctuary which was built this summer became the third completed building project. It is of colonial design and also provides four additional class rooms and two offices. With the additional space, the Sunday School with an enrollment of 163 has now become departmentalized. The public is invited to the dedication service.

Her Hour of Decision at Hand!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am a 27-year-old foreign girl living in Canada, who—because of the complexities of my story, must remain anonymous.

A decision I now make will affect my entire future and this is why, a stranger in a strange land, I turn to you.

Ours is an ancient Middle European family impoverished by many wars. I was 12 when the second world war ended—old enough to remember its horrors.

My father, whom I adored, was a Royalist but the majority of people in our village belonged to the Socialist party.

At 17 I fell deeply in love with the son of that party's leader. He returned my love. So long as I feigned an interest in his politics his mother smiled on our romance but when I refused to renounce the Royalists, because of my father, she turned against me, even though we had set the date of our wedding.

In a state of emotional hysteria we consummated our marriage before the ceremony and I became pregnant. All of this created such discussion that I fled rather than cause further trouble. My baby was born in Paris and my mother took it back to our native land, where it is today.

Having a little money, I decided to change my name and settle in another country, hoping to forget the past. My lover found me. Again I fled—this time on a trip around the world. Three years ago I landed in Canada.

Through some means, I shall never know how, my lover again located me. We have been corresponding for the past six months and I am preparing to return to my country and marry the boy who fathered my son. Now, I learn through friends, that he suddenly married two weeks ago! This has all but broken my heart.

On top of everything my father is seriously ill and calling for me. I must see him before he dies. But if I go I shall surely encounter my ex-lover who, according to my mother, still visits our baby. Sooner I go if so, when I do come face to face with this boy, how must I act! Please, please help!

—Faithful Reader, Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Faithful Reader: Go! You should never have fled in the first place. It is your ex-lover, not you, who ought to hang his head in shame. Stand by your son. Give him cause to be proud of you, if not of his father. And for heaven's sake, show some spirit when you do come face to face with this man. See him for what he is, a doing for yourself, instead of other.

wrecking. Hurry! Take the next plane. You have a double reason: to see your son and gladden your father's heart by coming. Above all be yourself.

Dear Helen: I am 14 and my shy, quick-tempered brother 17. He flares up over small things which are none of his business. He beats and tongue-lashes me. When I said I was going to tell some one beside my parents—meaning

Noted Artist Is Married

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Norman Rockwell, noted magazine cover artist and illustrator, and Miss Mary L. Underwood, a retired teacher, were married Wednesday in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

It was the third marriage for Rockwell, 67. His first marriage ended in divorce in 1930. His second wife died two years ago.

The bride, 65, retired in 1959 after teaching English at Milton Academy for 37 years.

you—he threatened to kill me. I'm scared to death of him even when my parents are home. Is there anything I can do to protect myself? —Bobby S.

Dear Bobby S.: Your brother is suffering from a bad case of arrested development and should be taken to a psychiatrist. Ask your family physician to help, since your parents evidently won't. Show him your letter and my reply.

Confidential to Nervous Wreck: It is a rule of thumb in life that should never have fled in the first place. It is your ex-lover, not you, who ought to hang his head in shame. Stand by your son. Give him cause to be proud of you, if not of his father. And for heaven's sake, show some spirit when you do come face to face with this man. Doesn't Believe in Relaxing Tension

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Dr. James D. Bales of Harding College at Searcy, Ark., says he doesn't believe in relaxing international tensions.

In a talk here Thursday night, he said, "This is like having a boxer relax temporarily in the ring. He will find himself relaxed on the canvas next."

Dr. Bales described Communism as not an ivory tower of faith but an active and aggressive philosophy designed to further Communist aims.

Some union workers, he said, seem to have a better understanding of what Communism means than do some businessmen "who wine and dined Khrushchev" during the Soviet premier's United States visit in 1959.

Halloween May Reveal a Look

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
HENNIKER, N.H. (AP) - Legend has it she was 6 feet tall with red hair and green eyes—a striking Irish beauty who set hearts aflutter in the mid-18th century.

Not many people have seen her lately, and since there are no known pictures of her, she is a mystery. She is said to have been a pirate captain's daughter, and she is said to have been a pirate captain's daughter.

From the medium's description he'll paint her portrait and, as he slyly puts it: "Who can say she doesn't look like that?"

L. M. A. Roy (the understandingly prefers initials) uses the present tense in referring to Ocean Born Mary, an original occupant of the house he has lived in more than 40 years. To him she is not just a colorful legend and some-time ghost, nor merely a source of dimes and quarters that trickle in from tourists now that the old Georgian mansion is a landmark on the New Hampshire map. She is a benign spirit keeping him from injury, because he is taking care of the house she loved.

His mother, who died at 90 in 1949, saw Mary three times, he says, but he never has. Since her death he has lived alone, "never having found the right girl to marry."

Now nearing 79 and dead-end on reaching 100, Roy is a small, white-haired man with a white beard and a white mustache.

Dist. Church Meet at Hope Beebe CME

South Arkansas' Annual Conference of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church is now in session at Beebe Memorial CME Church on North Hazel Street with the Rt. Rev. Julian Smith, bishop of the First Episcopal District presiding.

The conference opened with communion service. The communion message was by the Rev. T. J. Rhone, presiding elder of the Texarkana District with 300 taking part.

The conference has been graced with the presence of many out of state visitors including the Rev. J. O. Lowe, presiding elder of the Tupelo, Miss. district who will speak at 11:30 a.m. daily.

The conference will close Sunday with Bishop Smith delivering the closing message. The Rev. N. C. Trent is host pastor; Rev. F. D. Adams, host presiding elder and the Rev. Julian Smith is presiding bishop.

Variety of Shows Every Wednesday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—If you had an adroit hand with a TV dial Wednesday night you could have watched variety shows from after dinner coffee until the bedtime snack.

The evening of song, dance and comedy started with ABC's Steve Allen show, followed by a brief hiatus until NBC's Perry Como opened for business, and then back to an ABC musical special.

There were many gay moments in the special, "Seasons of Youth." On this fall theme were the dancing of Barrie Chase and Bob Fosse, some sharp political satire by the "premise players," and the smartly-professional singing of Paul Anka and Jill Corey.

Most delightful was Barrie Chase's dancing, but it was all engaging, easy-mannered show.

In fact, it was a good evening and a nice change from a TV diet which lately has consisted largely of homicide and neurosis.

Women of star calling still are finding the going rough in television. Last season network TV cut itself loose from Loretta Young, June Allyson and Barbara Stanwyck, leaving only two feminine stars who luckily were tied into successful situation comedy series of the family type: Donna Reed and Harriet Nelson.

This season, Marilyn Maxwell was the only woman star with a new series: "Bus Stop" on ABC. Now comes word from Hollywood that the producers have dropped their option on her acting services upon completion of the first 13 episodes.

Recommended tonight: "Dr. Kildare," NBC, 8:30-9:30 (Eastern Daylight Time) - Hollywood-based story about an accident case; "The Untouchables," ABC, 10-11 - Eliot Ness against the narcotics traffic.

To Get a Part of Fort Smith

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—President Kennedy will be given, in a sense, a part of Fort Smith during his brief stop here Sunday.

Mayor Bob Brooksher will present him a deed to 10 acres on which the original Fort Smith Army post, was located.

The old fort has been designated by Congress as a national historic shrine.

Many members of the Arkansas and Oklahoma congressional delegations and other officials will be on hand to greet the President, who will land at the airport here and go by helicopter to Big Cedar, Okla., for a road dedication.

He will be the overnight guest of Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma and will fly back to Washington from here Monday morning.

scene. Then seven Soviet tanks appeared within 100 yards of the frontier.

The Red tanks lined up with their guns pointed at the American sector of Berlin. They remained there slightly under 30 minutes, then departed.

Almost immediately after the Red tanks left the explosive Friedrichstrasse intersection, five American tanks reappeared on the scene. They took up position right on the frontier.

A U.S. spokesman said the five other American Patton tanks and five armored personnel carriers were being held in reserve in the immediate area of the checkpoint.

A senior British army officer identified the Red tanks as Soviet, manned by Soviet crews. They were presumably from a group of 20-30 Soviet tanks that moved into East Berlin Thursday night from neighboring East Germany.

The British officer said the tanks included four new model T54s and three old T34s.

The Soviet tanks moved in as the East German regime accused American troops of border provocations and warned in a note to the United States that their "salaries" were a danger to peace.

Slipping into the city quietly, the Soviet tanks halted only a few blocks from the Friedrichstrasse border checkpoint where East Germany demands that American civilians traveling into East Berlin show identification.

Witnesses counted a dozen Soviet tanks with Soviet crews parked amid the bomb ruins of the palace of Emperor Wilhelm the First. Soviet and East German guards shooed away the curious.

A private Western Intelligence source reported that at least 30 tanks had arrived in what marked the first appearance of Soviet armor in the heart of East Berlin since they helped crush the 1953 anti-Communist revolt there.

The U.S. Patton tanks bivouacked in the midtown borough of Kreuzberg, close by the crossing point into Communist East Berlin. They were readily available to help drive home the U.S. contention that Americans have war-won rights to enter the Red sector without showing identification papers to East German police.

Three British Centurion tanks moved up today to a point about half a mile west of the Brandenburg Gate. West Berlin police reported.

The British earlier pulled up three antitank guns opposite the gate, the most direct route into the Western sector from where the Soviet tanks halted. Two British armored cars and an armored personnel carrier also arrived.

The combined armor of the Western Allies in West Berlin is believed to be far less than that of the Soviets, however, and would be hopelessly outnumbered in the event of a clash.

American and British military spokesmen said that no special general alert had been ordered for their garrisons.

"Things are normal," at the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint, the U.S. spokesman said. The British official did acknowledge that "we have reinforced our troops at the Brandenburg Gate" and said normal patrolling of that sector is continuing.

The United States refuses to recognize the East German regime and forbids its employees to defer to East German officials.

Once Wednesday and once Thursday the U.S. military command here ordered out 10 tanks and troops in armored carriers to back brief thrusts into East Berlin. The sorties were actually carried out by three jeeps with supplies men who can still do handstands. His blue eyes sparkle as he pads about in sneakers plying visitors with tales of pirates, buried treasure, and of course, Ocean Born Mary.

She was born at sea in 1720 to the wife of the sea captain bringing a party of Scotch-Irish immigrants from Ireland to New Hampshire. Not far from Boston Harbor a pirate crew boarded, and threatened all with death.

Pedro who turned out to be a sentimental sort, spared their lives when it was promised the newborn baby would be named Mary after his mother. He presented her with a bolt of greenish-blue broadcloth silk, which he said he hoped would be made into her wedding gown.

It was, and she wore it at her marriage to Thomas Wallace. When she later became a widow with four sons, Captain Pedro, who had kept track of her through the years, invited her to keep house for him in a magnificent Georgian house he was building near here. She lived in it until she died at 94.

If the medium doesn't see Mary after next week, maybe some passerby will. Several are on record over the years as having seen a tall woman in white drive down the road in the fancy open coach the pirate gave Mary, descend to throw a bundle in a nearby well, and then disappear in the distance. It was probably just coincidence it usually happened on Halloween.
